

Supplement to The Review

Vol. 5

High Point, N. C., Nov. 12, 1910

No. 20

MR. J. E. KIRKMAN, OF HIGH POINT

Who was elected to the Legislature by such a handsome margin in Tuesday's election.

Major Stedman made a fine talk Friday night at the warehouse. A goodly number of Confederate Veterans were present as well as several ladies.

The blind boys are again the playing attraction at the Eagle theato. These blind musicians are far above the average.

The buildings of the Pickett Cotton mills are assuming shape rapidly. The plans call for a large plant and we bespeak for the new company much success.

The Craddock Shoes are the ones that wear 30 days longer, for the same money. C. Mattocks.

It is with much regret The Review learns of the serious illness of Mr. A. G. Kirkman, for many years register of deeds of the county and one of the best fellows ever.

Dr. G. F. Duncan has gone to New York to take a special course. Dr. Burrus, his associate, is already there. Both will return home next month.

The store of Sarris & Company has been closed up on account of a bill due the High Point Ice & Fuel Co., who had the execution made.

Revival services are in progress at Welch Memorial church.

Mr. Dan Maddox, who was called away from Trinity on account of the death of his father has returned to his studies.

The Craddock Shoes are the ones that wear 30 days longer, for the same money. C. Mattocks.

The Daughters of Rebekah's had an interesting time Monday night in the way of a social. Refreshments were served.

Don't flinch, flounder, fall over, or fiddle, but grapple the contest proposition like a man. There is no end to what you can accomplish if you but will to do it. The one who wills can go anywhere and do what he or she determines to do.

Craddock Shoes. That's all. C. Mattocks.

Herbert Austin is again at his post of duty in the Wachovia bank after an illness of several days from tonsilitis.

Grady Clark fell and broke his arm Monday night.

You can't have our best prize unless we have your best effort in return. You can't arrive unless you survive. Half journeys are wasted. Only the stride which lands you at the finish counts.

The Red Men have moved into the new Junior Order building.

MISS HIATT DEAD

Died Monday afternoon at the home of James Leonard at Hickory Grove, Miss Emily Hiatt, at the advanced age of 72 years. The funeral services occurred Tuesday afternoon at Hickory Grove.

DEATH OF MISS ELLISON

Miss Mamye Ellison died Tuesday morning at one o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ellison on North Main street, after an illness of several years.

The funeral services occurred Wednesday afternoon from the First Baptist church, conducted by Revs. O. L. Powers and J. B. Richardson. The Philatheas and Baracas, of which deceased was a member, attended the services in a body.

Deceased was 30 years of age and was a model young woman, a consistent member of the First Baptist church. Several years ago Miss Ellison was injured in a runaway, which occurred near the Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, a horse becoming scared at an automobile and precipitating her and the other occupant of the buggy to the ground. Miss Ellison's spine was injured the fall and this was the direct cause of her death. Surviving deceased are her parents, Mrs. Cross, a sister, living in Randolph county, and Mr. Arthur Ellison, a brother living here.

The Review along with the many friends of the family extend sincerest sympathy.

FIRES MONDAY

Monday afternoon a barn belonging to R. W. Gray burned up with all contents, including over 800 bushels of corn, and farm machinery. The loss is something like $3,000. The same afternoon Warren Phillips' barn in the western part of the city was burned, together with all contents. The loss was about $150.00.

A HANDSOME QUARTER SAW-ED ROCKER.

The Review and people of High Point greatly appreciate the interest the Amos Furniture Company has taken in The Review's popularity contest. The handsome rocker in the window will be presented by them to the young lady holding the largest number of votes from Nov. 5th to 24th, 5 p. m. This is just one example that goes to prove the genuine interest this firm takes in all that goes to make High Point a better place.
